

What is the Open Library?

During the month of February, McGill Library is offering a number of workshops to help the community better understand the concept of "open" that we've been hearing so much about - be that open access, open resources, or open data.

Workshops include:

- Open Access and Your Scholarship
- Open Access Sources: your key to accessing free and reliable research beyond the university gates
- Visualization Workshop for Humanities Scholars: Doing Humanities in a World of Data [registration required]
- Connecting with reliable, open access health information on the Web
- Wikipedia edit-a-thon: McGill in Montreal [registration required]

Join us! For more information click: http://www.mcgill.ca/library/open#open\_access\_sources

Many thanks,

Merika

Merika Ramundo
Communications Officer | Agente de communications

McGill Library | Bibliothèques de l'Université McGill
t: 514-398-5710 | f: 514-398-3561

<http://www.mcgill.ca/library> | Twitter: @McGillLib | facebook.com/mcgill.library